FINDS GOVERNOR IS A BANKRUPT

Harry C. Sheridan, Referee in Bankruptcy, Makes Report to be Submitted to Judge Anderson

WHAT THE CASE HINGED ON

View Expressed McCray Was Not Chiefly Engaged in Farming When Proceedings Were Filed

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 30—Governor Warren T. McCray should be adjudged bankrupt, according to a finding made by Harry C. Sheridan, referee in bankruptcy, today.

The report will be submitted to Judge A. B. Anderson for approval. In making the finding, Sheridan said that the governor at the time of filing of the petition in bankruptcy by three Fort Wayne banks was not a laborer or a person chiefly engaged in farming of the tillage of the soil.

This was the main point at issue at the nine-day hearing before Sheridan in November.

Sheridan also found that the governor was insolvent and that after he had conveyed all his property to creditors by trust deeds and other means, his only occupation was that of governor.

McCray's attorneys had held that he was primarily a farmer and that his being governor was only incidental.

The report, which was fifteen pages in length, went into the entire history of McCray's activities for many years past.

"The respondent was greatly indebted at the time the petition was filed in this cause," the report said. "Some of these debts have been made from farming but the evidence is conclusive that the major portions of them, in fact more than seventy-five percent, grew out of dealings in the pure-bred cattle business, in buying farms and in enterprises other than farming."

After reviewing the evidence as to the governor's occupation, the report said:

"The evidence discloses that a voluntary deed and assignment was made by the respondent and that from and after that time he had no occupation other than that of governor of Indiana."

Turning to the question of solvency, the report took up the transfer of McCray's property to the Aetna Trust Company of Indianapolis, and the formation of a Goodrich pool of $350,000 and at a later date the transfer of all property subject to the trust agreement, to the State Savings and Trust Company as trustees for the creditors.

SEVERAL CASES PUT ON DOCKET

Preparations Being Made For February Term of Court, Which Opens Next Monday

210 CASES ARE PENDING

Civil Suits to Number of 180 And Criminal Actions Numbering 30 Are to be Heard

There are 180 civil suits and 30 criminal cases pending trial on the dockets in the circuit court, when court convenes in the February term next Monday, and although the civil business is about normal, the criminal business is shot on cases as compared with former terms, due principally to the fact that many were dismissed from the docket this week. Judge Sparks also has been working on the court calendar for the new term, and several cases have been docketed for trial.

In the court term that ended Saturday there were a total of 71 civil suits removed from the books, most of them having been either tried or dismissed during the term.

The early part of the court term will have several important cases and several state issues will be heard. On February 7 Hankins and Ryan are scheduled to be tried on the charge of criminal assault, and on the eleventh another one of the Hasty conspiracy case defendants is to be tried.

The case of the State against Robbins, a liquor case venued here from Decatur county, has been set for February 15. On February 18, the alienation case of Miller against Miller will be tried again, before Judge Craig of Greensburg. This case was tried a year ago, and the plaintiff given $4,500 judgment. Decides To Determine Actual Condition of Former Secretary

Senate Public Lands Committee Will Appoint Medical Experts to Examine Albert B. Fall, Central Figure in Naval Oil Reserves Investigation. Hearing Out Short Today

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 30—The senate public lands committee today decided to appoint three medical experts to determine the actual condition of Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, central figure in naval oil reserves investigation.

Four personal physicians who have been attending Fall told the committee in executive session that Fall was in a condition bordering on a nervous prostration.

Members of the committee were not satisfied with this testimony and decided to employ three impartial experts of their own to determine whether or not Fall is able to testify.

E. L. Doherty, lessee of two naval reserves, was present to testify but did not go on the witness stand as the session was cut short to enable members of the committee to go to the senate floor.

Meantime the senate appropriation committee voted to report favorably on the bill appropriating $100,000 for counsel to conduct a general investigation of the oil leases.

Ed Hawkins was the more seriously injured and besides receiving bruises, also suffered a broken rib or two.

Joseph A. McCorkle of Carthage Sues Big Four Railroad For $5,000 In Circuit Court

NEGLIGENCE IS ALLEGED

Employees' Carelessness Blamed For Fatal Injuries to Dorothy L. McCorkle Nov. 17, 1923

Alleging negligence on the part of the Big Four railroad, Joseph A. McCorkle of Carthage has filed suit in the circuit court here, demanding $5,000 judgment on account of fatal injuries his 7-year-old daughter, Dorothy L. McCorkle, received last November, when she was burned to death, while playing along the tracks near the depot in Carthage.

The plaintiff alleges that the railroad owns an open space of ground near the depot, and that there is no enclosure. On November 17, the employees of the railroad are alleged to have started a trash pile on fire, and that it was left unprotected, and children were attracted to it.

The complaint alleges that the open space near the depot, is also in a path-way toward the school house, and is used frequently by children. His property also adjoins

NO PLAN MADE TO WRECK BUILDING

Reports Denied Wreckers Were To Be Employed Today To Raze Odd Fellow Building

COWING STOCK TO BE MOVED

Insurance Adjusters Want Goods Listed First—State Building Inspector Coming

A report in circulation today that a representative of Mrs. Sadie Mowers, owner of the Odd Fellow building, and a representative of the lodge, had gone to Indianapolis to engage a wrecking crew to wreck the building, was denied by persons in position to know. It was stated on reliable authority that no steps have been taken to tear down the walls of the structure, which was ruined by fire last Friday morning.

Joe Williamson, chief of the fire department, was in Indianapolis today consulting with the state building inspector, about the danger existing in the standing walls. The state inspector stated that he would be in Rushville Thursday morning and would confer with the owner in regard to wrecking the building.

J. L. Cowing, Son and Co., one of the heaviest losers in the fire, expected to start work late this afternoon removing the fire-damaged and water-soaked stock of men's and boys' clothing and shoes to the room formerly occupied by the Loren Meek furniture store. Removal of the stock had to await the closing out of the bankrupt furniture stock, the remainder of which is to be sold at auction.

Fire insurance adjusters refused to deal with the clothing firm until the stock remaining was removed from the room and listed.

Fear that the building was shifting since the fire, or that the walls were cracking, was expressed today when one of the large plate glass windows on the second street side of the Cowing store, was found to be cracked.

Many regard the building as it now stands a menace to life and property and believe that it should be razed at the earliest possible moment. The streets are still roped off and no one will be permitted to drive or walk past the building so long as it remains in its present condition.

The report has been in circulation that the Rush County National bank vault, which was not opened until a

TAXI MAN IN A NARROW ESCAPE

William Manning Leaps From Automobile When it Skids on Ice in Front of Freight Train

CAR SHOVED ABOUT 50 FEET

Freight Car Coupling Catches in Rear Door and Holds Machine Upright—Occupant Bruised

William Manning, who is employed at the Arcade pool room and who lately started a taxicab service, narrowly escaped death Monday at 10:20 a. m. o'clock when his automobile was hit by a C. I. & W. freight train at the Spencer street crossing.

Mr. Manning's agility in leaping from the car and the fact that the coupling on the freight car caught the automobile and prevented it from turning over, probably accounts for his life being saved.

Mr. Manning saw the engine, pushing two freight cars ahead, approach the crossing from the east, a small girl at the side of the street having warned him of his danger. He was then almost one hundred feet from the crossing, he says, but the street was covered with a glare of ice and the automobile slid directly in the path of the cars and stopped on the crossing.

Mr. Manning applied the brake when his attention was called to the approach of the train and put the engine in reverse gear, he says, but this failed to stop the skidding car, even though the wheels were equipped with chains.

Mr. Manning asserted this morning that the engineer saw him and thought that he had crossed the track ahead of the train. Mr. Manning said that the brakeman, who should have been on the front end of the car, was on the rear end and did not see the automobile, or he could have stopped the train and prevented the accident.

The automobile was shoved about fifty feet up the track. If the coupling of the freight car had not caught in the rear door of the machine, the

CARTHAGE MAN HELD FOR STEALING COAL

Samuel T. Deweese Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by Capt. Charles J. Neill of Big Four

ANOTHER PROVES INNOCENCE

Samuel T. Deweese, a resident of Carthage was arrested today on a charge of stealing coal from a car on a side track of the Big Four railroad, and he was brought to jail here where a charge will be preferred against him.

This morning Captain Charles J. Neill of the Big Four detective force obtained a search warrant and with Constable John Wolters of Justice Stech's court, went to the Carthage place and conducted a search, which resulted in the finding of coal, it was said, similar to that in the car.

A second search warrant was issued against a Carthage resident, but this man produced sufficient evidence to show that he had purchased the coal from a dealer.

The alleged theft of the coal was January 28, according to the search warrants executed by Justice Stech.

NEW RECORDS FOR OFFICES ORDERED

County Treasurer And Auditor Instructed by Accounts Board to Make Drastic Changes

TO BE PARTIALLY FOLLOWED

Improved Method Will Simplify Auditor's Work—New Books Just Purchased in Both Offices

Instructions to install new record books that will change the methods materially, were received by the county auditor and county treasurer today from the state board of accounts.

Though he recently added two new record books at a cost of $80, Phil Wilk, the auditor, said that he would follow the recommendations of the state board and follow the new system, because it greatly simplifies the work. For example, the new book for issuing warrants makes provision for a carbon copy to go to the treasurer, instead of a stub now in use, and also has a column so that the auditor can keep a daily balance in the general fund and school funds.

The road construction record will not be followed, however, because it is almost identical to the one in use in the auditor's office and was copied largely from the form originated by Mr. Wilk.

Charles A. Frazee, deputy treasurer, said that he doubted if any changes would be made in the treasurer's office, because several new books had just been purchased for the office at the expense of more than $200. Mr. Frazee said that following the recommendations of the state board of accounts would not simplify the work in his office, but would make it more complicated.

There is no penalty attached for not following the instructions of the state board, it is said. One of the chief purposes of the standardization of the county offices is to simplify the work of the field examiners of the state board, who are supposed to examine the offices every year. Some county offices here have not been examined for three years.

The county could have been saved money if the instructions had been forwarded in December, because the auditor and treasurer did not order their new books until this month, after the county commissioners had let the contract for printing supplies. The instructions were dated December 7, 1923, and it is not understood here why they did not arrive sooner.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED

Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cardui, and Got Well.

Richmond, Ind.—“I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui,” says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.

“I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me,” writes Mrs. Courtney. “My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping.”

“I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine.”

“I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs.”

“I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time.”

“It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman.”

If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.

Obituary

Died, Friday November 30th 1923 at his residence in Gings Station, Daniel O'Keefe son of John and Johanna O'Keefe and husband of Sallie J. O'Keefe (nee Newkirk) daughter of Daniel B. and Polly A. Newkirk. Born in Brown county, Ohio. April 9th, 1852 he was educated in the public schools but before finishing the grades he left home at the age of sixteen to seek his fortune as a farm hand among strangers. Coming to Rush County in 1876 he found employment with the late Thomas Wright near Falmouth and later with Samuel Wycoff, James Bussell, Robert Hinchman and Daniel B. Newkirk—all long since departed. October 16th, 1882 he was married and began farming on the F. M. Hamilton farm in Center township and after the death of Mr. Hamilton he took up his residence on the farm which he owned at his death. His health failing and being unable to work on the farm he purchased in Gings the residence where he died. The poet Pope has written that "the greatest study of man is man." Those who were most intimately acquainted with the deceased saw many of the characteristics which characterized his life. Possessed of the rashness and impetuosity peculiar to his race and a pride which never denied his blood, his too was that other trait—A warm heart, a generous nature and a loyalty in friendship, adversity nor rumor ever marred or misplaced hidden under a rough exterior which melted in sorrow or distress like the heart of a child. His high sense of honor in all business dealings, which made him shun trickery and detest it in others, made him respected by those with whom he dealt and his word was as good as his bond. While careful and prudent he never refused to aid a worthy person in want or need although at times ingratitude planted its sting. As disease of a painful and distressing nature continued to afflict him and break down his natural good nature he became morose and pessimistic and at times ill-natured and apparently robbed of the finer traits of early life. yet it must be remembered that persistent pain and inability to get around coming so suddenly to a man whose life had been bustle and action destroyed his balance and left him the prey of every morbid feeling and suspicion. In this he was only human but with all his suffering he took a great interest in passing events and a man of honor whose loyalty to his friends ended only with his death. He had his faults—and who had not—and at times, when pain racked, they were many and grievous, but his frank, manly and generous nature always made amends for any seeming short coming. A member of no church he yet cherished an unflinching belief in a Supreme Being and a life beyond the grave and frequently talked about the great mystery of life and death and man's immortality. For him the mystery is over and he stands face to face with Eternity.

Panegyrics can wipe out no stains nor add grace nor virtue to the departed soul for "Can Storried men or animated bust, back to its mansion call the fleeting breath? Can honors voice provoke the silent dust, Or flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?" In Holy Writ we read "I am the Resurrection and the Life, He that believeth in me, tho he were dead, yet shall he live" and if revealed religion is not a myth, and Jesus Christ an imposter, there is hope of redemption for those who die in the faith of that promise. May he rest in peace and may his faults and his follies in this life be forgiven and forgotten by man as we hope to be forgiven by our Father who is in Heaven and remember alone his virtues and good deeds and as we drop a tear on the grave where he sleeps think—he was always a man. And may He who "tempests the wind to the shorn lamb" now and ever have those who mourn his loss, in His sacred care and keeping.

When the impact came, Mr. Manning kicked at the front door of the right side and jumped clear of the moving train. His right arm was cut above the elbow by broken glass of the windshield and his right hip and left elbow were badly bruised.

The right wheels of the machine were broken down, the left side was crushed in, the frame twisted and the radius rods bent. The top was almost demolished.

The engineer told Mr. Manning after the accident that he thought the automobile had cleared the track and kept train moving after bringing it almost to a stop to make sure that the machine would get across safely.

NEW'S PROGRAM IS FAR REACHING

Postmaster's Order is First Ever Put Out By Department For Mailing And Delivery of Newspapers

TO BE IN CONSTANT TRANSIT

Important Feature is no Publication Shall Be Given Any Less Efficient Treatment Than at Present

As a result of several months of investigation and study by experts of the postoffice department, Postmaster General New today issued the first definite, concise and complete program that has ever been put out by the department for the mailing, transmission and delivery of newspapers.

This order is most important. It is far reaching. It gives the same expedition to newspapers as it accorded to first class mail.

The order is the result of painstaking effort on the part of the postoffice inspectors, under the direction of First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett. Carefully worded and minute instructions have been issued to all employees engaged in handling the mails, so that there will be no possibility of misunderstanding the importance of getting newspapers to the reader with a minimum of delay.

The essence of the order is that newspapers shall not be moved with parcels post at any point in their dispatch from the publishers' office with their delivery to the addresses. Papers shall be handled by themselves, and kept in constant transit, not being sent to railway terminals to be reworked. In other words, they are to be handled in the same manner as first class mail.

An important feature of the order is that no publication shall be given any less efficient or less expeditious treatment than at present. That means that publications other than from this progressive innovation, newspapers will not suffer one iota made by the postoffice department.

Another striking figure of the order is the elimination of sacks of mail which are known to the business world as "mixed mail." Sacks of mixed mail some times contain letters, papers, and parcel post, and often times the entire contents were treated as parcels post. This order will prevent a recurrence of that condition.

Another important feature of the order is that postmasters are required to notify publishers in each instance when they do not hit the dispatch which they advertise to hit; also to notify publishers when they are sending to wrong addresses and to the addresses of deceased persons. Publishers will also be notified when they are putting up their mail in an incorrect manner.

Under the new system, newspapers will be made up in separate sacks plainly labeled with the word "NEWSPAPERS." If there are only a few copies of newspapers at the point of dispatch, they will be placed in pouches with first class mail or in separate sacks, even though the sacks are only partially filled.

This order means much to the American public. It is one of the most important and far reaching

Fig Coffee.

It is reported in Czechoslovakia figs are prepared in substitution for coffee. Dried either in the sun or in evaporating pans, according to the climate, they are then roasted in ovens until they are quite brown and brittle, after which they are ground into a powder that is pressed into tablets. These are dissolved in hot water when "coffee" is desired.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1924

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isaiah 40: 31.

The "Politician"

A favorite way for thoughtless people to condemn a man in public life is to call him a "politician."

"Rabid and sensational metropolitan newspapers are in a large measure responsible for this point of view. Office holders who will not do their bidding are branded as "politicians" and in the minds of those who fail to think of themselves, nothing could be worse.

But what is a politician? The definition of the word discloses that a politician is one engaged in politics. Politics is the administration of public affairs. So by the simple process of reasoning, we arrive at the conclusion that a politician is one experienced in the administration of public affairs.

It is so horrible to be versed in public affairs? Yet implications have perverted the use of the word "politician" until many regard offices created for the service of the people the least desirable of all vocations in life.

There are those, of course, who are not thus deluded. They realize that men and women trained by experience are needed in public life just as they are needed in any private corporation or small business.

Politicians, if you please, people versed in the art of public business—not machine politicians, not errand boys or disreputable "ward healers" but clean, honest and reputable citizens who realize that politics offers a useful career.

Men and women of talent and ability should enter the field of politics but many are going to remain on the outside until the stigma is removed from the "politician."

tions that have permitted their enthusiasm for the Mellon tax reduction plan to get the better of their judgment. They have had printed thousands of letters which they are asking the people to sign and mail to Washington. Such efforts serve to defeat rather than aid the cause. Every Congressman wants to get the real views of his constituents, not only on taxation and bonus, but on every other public question. But letters must bear evidence that they really express the author's opinions rather than the views of some other individual or organization. If you have not written a letter of that sort, do so now, telling your Senators or Congressmen what you think of tax reduction and the soldiers' bonus.

The Soviet Investigation

The senate foreign relations committee is holding public hearings on the Russian question. Whether or not the soviet government has been conducting propaganda in this country directed at the overthrow of the United States government is a question that will occupy the chief attention of the committee. The department of justice has declared that it has ample proof of such activity, and it will be surprising if evidence is brought forward to disprove that assertion. If it is demonstrated that the soviet government is actually trying to overthrow our own institutions, there should be an end to the efforts of responsible Americans to induce the United States to recognize the soviets.

AGO TODAY

From Daily Republican Saturday, Jan. 30, 1909
William J. Ramsey, the noted southern singing evangelist, will be at the First Presbyterian church for the next two weeks. He is now conducting the singing at Chattanooga, Tenn., where they have had more than 200 converts.

With the power to preach the great word as no man ever possessed that came to this city before, surely there will be a tremendous spiritual awakening in Rushville before Evangelist Yeuell closes his meetings here at the Main street Christian church, and mark it that men, women and children by the score will be found at the altar confessing Christ.

Mrs. Curtis Thrall gave a kitchen shower at her home near Gowdy Thursday afternoon, Jan. 28, in honor of Miss Myrtle Hungerford, a bride-to-be.

The Rushville high school basketball team was unable to break the hoodoo which has been following them all the season, and went down to defeat before the strong Connersville five last night at Connersville by the score of 24 to 19. The game was played in the basement of the high school building, the ceiling being so low that the ball often struck it and caused the local boys who were not accustomed to the floor to miss the basket. Carl Gunning was easily the star of the game, scoring 17 out of the 19 points chalked up by Capt. Williams' aggregation.

The brick livery barn on the corner of Perkins and Second streets, which was owned by R. S. Davis has been sold to Guernsey and George Smalley of Dunreith.

The first of next week will find a new law firm in Rushville. On the shingle will be the names of Carson & Stevens, and they will be located in the Green building, one door west of the Republican building, in East Second street. Cary Carson is a son of Smith Carson of near Falmouth and Albert C. Stevens is a son of William Stevens of near Milroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Moor entertained at dinner today, Miss Jane Gaitskill of Winchester, Ky., Miss Ethel Ewing of Greensburg and Miss Algen Wilson. Miss Gaitskill and Miss Ewing are Miss Wilson's guests.

Ward Hackleman, Walter English, John Carr, Leon Smith and Royden Cox saw the basketball game in Connersville last night.

Mrs. George A. Sness and little son Ralph of Greenfield came today for an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pusey in North Jackson street.

Misses Harriet Vredenburg and Nelle Maire were Indianapolis visitors today.

Ralph Stiffler who is a student in Butler college in Indianapolis came this afternoon to spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Stiffler in West Second street.

MOVIES

"Black Oxen" at Princess

More than ordinary interest is aroused by the announcement that the management of the Princess theatre has contracted to play Frank Lloyd's "Black Oxen," a First National picture featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, starting today for this photoplay is the screen version of Gertrude Atherton's novel which became the best-selling novel of 1923.

As a book the revelation of the Atherton novel made "Black Oxen" a meteoric triumph and as a film play, enhanced by living characters, the Lloyd play is said to be an ever greater hit.

In transferring the odd romance of Lee Clavering, a cynical newspaper writer and budding playwright, and Madame Zatianny, a woman of 58 who appeared to be no more than 30 years of age, Mr. Lloyd has surrounded his leading players with a cast of unusual brilliance and given the players an elaborate and artistic atmospheric background for their action.

Miss Griffith, one of the screen's most beautiful and talented stars is seen as Madame Zatianny, who, rejuvenated by a glandular treatment, finds her true love in the autumn of life, and Mr. Tearle plays Clavering, who, although active in social circles for many years, finds in the charming Zatianny his ideal, and whose devotion is unshaken by the discovery of his sweetheart's true age. Clara Bow, a newcomer to the screen essays the part of the dapperish Janet Ogleshorpe, a debutante with modern ideas as to her own behavior and her prospective husband. Thomas Ricketts is seen as Char-

TOURNEY DRAWING

THURSDAY NIGHT

NEWSY GOSSIP IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

INTEREST CENTERS IN

COUNTY NET BATTLES

Work on the county stable is just a bout completed, and will be ready in time for Friday night. Carpenters have only a few more boards to put in place and the mammoth barn will be ready. Steam heated stalls for some teams, roost for others and all modern conveniences. We want to treat all of the county animals in c. Moscow has a bid in for one of the silos and Raleigh wants the other, but when it comes to pickin' the places, they will have to decide it when they all get together.

Richmond firemen rushed to Connersville the other morning, so we are told, to save the gym from burning, so that they'd have a place left in the town in which to trim the Ik-miks.

Greensburg is comin' here Thursday night to spring a surprise. They might do it, and if they win, you won't hear any alibi from Hittin' 'em. That has been the policy all season, regardless of what some scribes seem to think is alibis "galore."

This Guy Wins The Bottle of Castoria

When it comes to being president of the Amias club, in the department of stretching the truth, Side Lights, over at Connersville wins the appointment. Here is what he says:

Hittin' 'em broke out Saturday with alibis galore. He says that a ten-point margin on the home team's floor still puts 'em on even terms and that the day of reckonin' is coming. All right ole top but don't get too confident.

That statement was directly to the contrary. Hittin' 'em did not offer a single alibi. If that ten point stuff is an alibi, then an Ik-mik is a four legged animal. Side Lights had better be brushing up on his alibis, because there is nothing surer but what he will need 'em, after the Ik-miks get through over here.

MISERY LOVES COMPANY

"Thru the Hoop," in the Shelbyville Democrat, says this:

Here they are, companions in misery. George Purcell of Vincennes; Hittin' 'em of Rushville, and Hardwood Hamper of Columbus.

And Hittin' 'em only adds that after Friday night, when Muncie gets through with Shelbyville, the above companions in misery will have two members, "Thru the Hoop" and "Short Passes."

TODAY'S BEST SELLER IN RUSHVILLE IS FIRE INSURANCE.

A. W. K. of Homer writes in and says, "if those girls who play basketball want to fight and get rough, why don't they get married."

JUST LIKE ALFONSO AND GASTON

Oh, dear readers, if you could only see the two little sweet scribes, Side Lights and Thru the Hoop, Connersville and Shelbyville, put each other on the back like a couple of long lost sailors, with Side Lights handing bouquets to Shelbyville, keeping 'em sweet all the time, and then with Thru the Hoop tossing back a kiss. Each loving the other for complimentary remarks, just like, "You say my team is fine, and I'll say yours is fine." They remind Hittin' 'em of love sick kittens, and a few years ago when ole Side Lights was running a baseball club in Rushville, gosh how he hated that bunch down at Shelbyville, and when he was running an independent basketball team here, he called everybody in Shelbyville a robber. It's a great world, lots of it, but any time o' Hittin' 'em dishes out 'be sob sister stuff in order to get 'opped on the back, and given a kiss, let us know. We don't take this thing as seriously as some do around here. If you gotta crack comin' to you, we give it, because the man in the moon sure knows that all the scribes give it to us.

The Greensburg News comes forward with this:

The Greensburg high school basketball team will endeavor to continue its winning streak this week at the expense of the Rushville floor next Thursday night. The locals have been playing a superior brand of basketball of late and local enthusiasts feel that the team with a little backing can take the Rushville squad into camp.

"Wonder what would happen if all of Muncie's players happened to be going right in one game," says the Muncie Press, who adds, "It's never happened this year." We'd feel sorry for the other fellow. Probably they're just waitin' until they have to stretch themselves for a victory.

The Lions had one big night when they all played like they meant it, and that was when Columbus was here. Coach Swain tells us that they have several games in view in which they are all going to be hitting together.

WE BET ANDERSON HATES IT TOO!

Side Lights of Connersville is surprised at Anderson, and says this:

Anderson stock got a big boost over the state as a result of that win over Vincennes, but the Alices evidently were off form. They look like a better team than that and SIDE LIGHTS isn't pickin' Anderson for the state, not by several games yet.

He probably is just about ready to pick Rushville, don't you bet?

Here is That Moscow Record Again

Although the record of the Moscow team has been printed before, Hash and Hash Po, the twins from that section, has sent us their record up to date, including a game last Saturday, in which Moscow swamped Ninevah, 43 to 18. The record is sure a good one, and the Cows will be watching in both the invitational tourney and the sectional. Here is their record:

Moscow 47; New Salem 7
Moscow 34; Morristown 11
Moscow 39; Waldron 17
Moscow 41; Raleigh 27

Hash and Hash also adds that Raleigh did not defeat Moscow as they had in the Saturday paper.

Same Number Scheduled For Saturday Morning, With Two in Afternoon and Final at Night

The annual Rush county basketball tourney for the high school teams is all set for the first games to be played on Friday night, and the drawing for the twelve teams will take place Thursday evening before the Rushville-Greensburg game.

On account of every high school team in the county entering the annual derby race for the silver loving cup, twelve teams will be in the drawing, and 11 games will be played to decide the winner. Four of these games will be played Friday night.

On account of the uneven number of games, one team will draw a bye, and go into the final game at night after playing only three games, and their opponent will play four games in order to play in the final game.

The games Friday night will start promptly at six o'clock, with the doors being opened 30 minutes before each session. The regular 15-minute halves for tourney play will be used. The first game will start at six, the second at 6:50 the third at 7:40 and the fourth at 8:30.

The officials also have been selected. Bills and Litherland will have charge of the Friday night games, and on Saturday Litherland and Shoeman will be the officials, as Bills has an all day tourney in Knightstown. Van Hood of Indianapolis will be time keeper and Will Blackledge of this city, scorer.

After the four games on Friday night, play will be resumed Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with four games before noon on the bill. The two games will be played in the afternoon, and the final at night at 7:45. A curtain raiser Saturday night will be played between the Rushville and Milroy girls, starting at seven o'clock.

The ticket sale is unusually good and one of the largest crowds is expected. Many schools have requested more tickets. The drawing for positions will be made by a representative of each school just before the game Thursday night, and it will be announced. The season tickets sell for $1.00, and single session tickets are 35 cents.

The ladies of St. Paul's M. E. church announced today that they would serve meals to the general public in the basement of the church Saturday, on account of the basketball tournament.

Railroading Players

HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 30.—Major league managers and club owners deny that they have among themselves a gentleman's agreement not to interfere with each other's trading activities by claiming useful players upon whom waivers have been asked.

From time to time the fans, who have not access to the inside of baseball, find evidence that points to such an agreement. The players, who certainly are in a good position to hear back-stage talk, accused the club owners so directly with being willing to slide players out of the big leagues that they started to form a union a year ago to fight it.

With fifteen major league clubs recently allowed Elmer Smith, a 300 hitter, the champion pinch hitter of the American League and a fair fielding outfielder, to be shipped out to the American Association without a claim being made for him, it seemed strange, to say the least.

It was hard to understand why clubs in need of a reliable fielder and a hard hitter would offer big money to gamble on a minor league player when they would not accept for the waiver price a player of known ability.

Perhaps it was natural to figure that the Yankees wanted him to complete a deal with Louisville for Young Combs, a rookie with two seasons' experience and that the other clubs acted on the agreement—"I'll not claim yours, if you'll not claim mine."

Beyond an abstract denial of charges that the old "railroad" was still working, only one club official would take the trouble to explain how such things could happen regularly as a part of routine business.

John McGraw, vice president and manager of the Giants, suggests that in the case of Smith several rival managers might have wanted to take him away from the Yankees, but they might not have been able to do it.

"Major League clubs are allowed to have only forty players on their list at any one time and just before the training season starts, it is seldom that a manager has a place on his team at a moment's notice," McGraw said.

It is a well known fact that the "forty player limit rule" is one of those rules that looks good on the books and that is respected only as a good looking rule by the baseball people. It is also believed generally that the rule never will prevent a club owner from taking on a player that he really wants.

There is more to another argument presented by McGraw, however, that frequently a fancy contract prevents one club from taking a player from another club, for even the low price of the waiver.

If Smith had a three or four year contract at a salary of $7,000 or $8,000 it is not likely that one of the club owners not in the wealthy class would care to assume the obligation of a contract—if they would consider a baseball contract as placing any obligations on the club owner.

With a lot of sound wisdom behind the point, McGraw also calls to mind that major league managers may know a lot more about the ability of players than the fans and the writers.

He points out that all managers are not in such a position financially that they can impose a burden on the payroll just to have a pinch hitter on the bench and that the title of "champion pinch hitter" is not as high meaning as it sounds.

A pinch hitter it must be admitted might finish the season with an average of .399 and yet might not win a single game.

Word To The Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Is Life Worth Living? It Depends on the Liver

Very few people are aware that the liver is one of the most important vital organs of the human body.

The liver is the board of health department of the human system. It is constantly on the alert to destroy poisonous matter which accumulates.

When the bowels fail to carry off the waste and poison, the liver is called upon to act quickly to destroy bacteria caused by the putrefying of the accumulated waste.

A neglected or overworked liver enlarges and becomes inflamed. The kidney cells become irritated and Bright's disease follows.

Diseased kidneys and hardened arteries raise the blood pressure and cause the heart to pump harder until the heart is diseased.

The brain becomes irritated and its action is impaired. Thoughts are sluggish, memory suffers and melancholia develops.

We could enumerate many more serious diseases which surely follow from liver complaint.

FARM MUST STUDY DEMANDS OF MARKET

"Reform and improvement in the marketing system can come only as the fundamentals of marketing services are understood," said Dr. W. E. Paulson of the Farm Management Department of Purdue University, while discussing "The Marketing of Farm Products" with the farmers attending the recent short course at Purdue University.

"A general program of Wholesale elimination of middle-men, so popular in certain sections, is bound to fail," he said, "as it does not properly appreciate the essential services rendered by middlemen."

When asked what the attitude of the farmer should be toward the present marketing system and what they could do to help improve it, he replied that the farmer should take upon himself the job of obtaining a clearer conception of what the consumer wants as to the quantity and quality so that he can produce accordingly.

Dr. Paulson said that it is estimated that during the last 21 years the farmers on the Northwest have sent 110,000,000 bushels of dockage or waste along with wheat, to the

FINDS GOVERNOR IS A BANKRUPT

Harry C. Sheridan, Referee in Bankruptcy, Makes Report to be Submitted to Judge Anderson

WHAT THE CASE HINGED ON

View Expressed McCray Was Not Chiefly Engaged in Farming When Proceedings Were Filed

(By United Press)
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 30—Governor Warren T. McCray should be adjudged bankrupt, according to a finding made by Harry C. Sheridan, referee in bankruptcy, today.

The report will be submitted to Judge A. B. Anderson for approval. In making the finding, Sheridan said that the governor at the time of filing of the petition in bankruptcy by three Fort Wayne banks was not a laborer or a person chiefly engaged in farming of the tillage of the soil.

This was the main point at issue at the nine-day hearing before Sheridan in November.

Sheridan also found that the governor was insolvent and that after he had conveyed all his property to creditors by trust deeds and other means, his only occupation was that of governor.

McCray's attorneys had held that he was primarily a farmer and that his being governor was only incidental.

The report, which was fifteen pages in length, went into the entire history of McCray's activities for many years past.

"The respondent was greatly indebted at the time the petition was filed in this cause," the report said. "Some of these debts have been made from farming but the evidence is conclusive that the major portions of them, in fact more than seventy-five percent, grew out of dealings in the pure-bred cattle business, in buying farms and in enterprises other than farming."

After reviewing the evidence as to the governor's occupation, the report said:

"The evidence discloses that a voluntary deed and assignment was made by the respondent and that from and after that time he had no occupation other than that of governor of Indiana."

Turning to the question of solvency, the report took up the transfer of McCray's property to the Aetna Trust Company of Indianapolis, and the formation of a Goodrich pool of $350,000 and at a later date the transfer of all property subject to the trust agreement, to the State Savings and Trust Company as trustees for the creditors.

SEVERAL CASES PUT ON DOCKET

Preparations Being Made For February Term of Court, Which Opens Next Monday

210 CASES ARE PENDING

Civil Suits to Number of 180 And Criminal Actions Numbering 30 Are to be Heard

There are 180 civil suits and 30 criminal cases pending trial on the dockets in the circuit court, when court convenes in the February term next Monday, and although the civil business is about normal, the criminal business is shot on cases as compared with former terms, due principally to the fact that many were dismissed from the docket this week.

Judge Sparks also has been working on the court calendar for the new term, and several cases have been docketed for trial.

In the court term that ended Saturday there were a total of 71 civil suits removed from the books, most of them having been either tried or dismissed during the term.

The early part of the court term will have several important cases and several state issues will be heard. On February 7 Hankins and Ryan are scheduled to be tried on the charge of criminal assault, and on the eleventh another one of the Hasty conspiracy case defendants is to be tried.

The case of the State against Robbins, a liquor case venue here from Deatur county, has been set for February 15. On February 18, the alienation case of Miller against Miller will be tried again, before Judge Craig of Greensburg. This case was tried a year ago, and the plaintiff given $1,500 judgment. The court calendar is as follows:

IT'S GOING TO BE HARD TRAVELING

Decides To Determine Actual Condition of Former Secretary

Senate Public Lands Committee Will Appoint Medical Experts to Examine Albert B. Fall, Central Figure in Naval Oil Reserves Investigation. Hearing Cut Short Today.

(By United Press)
Washington, Jan. 30—The senate public lands committee today decided to appoint three medical experts to determine the actual condition of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, central figure in naval oil reserves investigation.

Four personal physicians who have been attending Fall told the committee in executive session that Fall was in a condition bordering on a nervous prostration.

Members of the committee were not satisfied with this testimony and decided to employ three impartial experts of their own to determine whether or not Fall is able to testify.

E. L. Doheny, lessee of two naval reserves, was present to testify but did not go on the witness stand as the session was cut short to enable members of the committee to go to the senate floor.

Meantime the senate appropriation committee voted to report favorably on the bill appropriating $100,000 for counsel to conduct a general investigation of the oil leases.

TWO INJURED WHEN CAR SKIDS ON HILL

Emory and Ed. Hawkins, 1124 North Main Street, in Accident on Bull Town Hill

LATTER HURT THE WORSE

Two Rushville men were injured, but not seriously Tuesday, when the machine in which they were riding skidded on the Bull Town hill, east of Andersonville, and narrowly missed toppling off a steep grade.

The men, Emory and Ed Hawkins, brothers, who live at 1124 North Main street, were attempting to go over the hill in their Buick touring car, when it skidded and went back down the hill sideways, breaking off a wheel and smashing one side and running board.

Ed Hawkins was the more seriously injured and besides receiving bruises, also suffered a broken rib or two.

Joseph A. McCorkle of Carthage Sues Big Four Railroad For $5,000 in Circuit Court

NEGLIGENCE IS ALLEGED

Employees' Carelessness Blamed For Fatal Injuries to Dorothy L. McCorkle Nov. 17, 1923

Alleging negligence on the part of the Big Four railroad, Joseph A. McCorkle of Carthage has filed suit in the circuit court here, demanding $5,000 judgment on account of fatal injuries his 7-year-old daughter, Dorothy L. McCorkle, received last November, when she was burned to death, while playing along the tracks near the depot in Carthage.

The plaintiff alleges that the railroad owns an open space of ground near the depot, and that there is no enclosure. On November 17, the employees of the railroad are alleged to have started a trash pile on fire, and that it was left unprotected, and children were attracted to it.

The complaint alleges that the open space near the depot, is also in a path-way toward the school house, and is used frequently by children. His property also adjoins

NO PLAN MADE TO WRECK BUILDING

Reports Denied Wreckers Were To Be Employed Today To Raze Odd Fellow Building

COWING STOCK TO BE MOVED

Insurance Adjusters Want Goods Listed First—State Building Inspector Coming

A report in circulation today that a representative of Mrs. Sadie Mowers, owner of the Odd Fellow building, and a representative of the lodge, had gone to Indianapolis to engage a wrecking crew to wreck the building, was denied by persons in position to know. It was stated on reliable authority that no steps have been taken to tear down the walls of the structure, which was ruined by fire last Friday morning.

Joe Williamson, chief of the fire department, was in Indianapolis today consulting with the state building inspector, about the danger existing in the standing walls. The state inspector stated that he would be in Rushville Thursday morning and would confer with the owner in regard to wrecking the building.

J. L. Cowing, Son and Co., one of the heaviest losers in the fire, expected to start work late this afternoon removing the fire-damaged and water-soaked stock of men's and boys' clothing and shoes to the room formerly occupied by the Loren Meek furniture store. Removal of the stock had to await the closing out of the bankrupt furniture store, the remainder of which is to be sold at auction.

Fire insurance adjusters refused to deal with the clothing firm until the stock remaining was removed from the room and listed.

Fear that the building was shifting since the fire, or that the walls were cracking, was expressed today when one of the large plate glass windows on the second street side of the Cowing store, was found to be cracked.

Many regard the building as it now stands a menace to life and property and believe that it should be razed at the earliest possible moment. The streets are still roped off and no one will be permitted to drive or walk past the building so long as it remains in its present condition.

The report has been in circulation that the Rush County National bank vault, which was not opened until a

SEAL RECEIPTS TRANSFERRED

Turned Over to Woman's Council Today by Glen Foster, Treasurer

The total receipts from the sale of Christmas Seals here during the holidays, amounting to $1,883.90, were turned over today by Glen Foster, Cashier of the American National Bank, who was treasurer of the fund, to Miss Anna Bohannon, treasurer of the Rushville Woman's Council, which distributes and administers the spending of the money.

Receipts from the sale were about $83 greater than last year and show that the campaign was highly successful. The money raised through the sale of Seals has increased annually.

TAXI MAN IN A NARROW ESCAPE

William Manning Leaps From Automobile When It Skids on Ice in Front of Freight Train

CAR SHOVED ABOUT 50 FEET

Freight Car Coupling Catches in Rear Door and Holds Machine Upright—Occupant Bruised

William Manning, who is employed at the Arcade pool room and who lately started a taxicab service, narrowly escaped death Monday at 10:20 a. m. o'clock when his automobile was hit by a C. I. & W. freight train at the Spencer street crossing.

Mr. Manning's ability in leaping from the car and the fact that the coupling on the freight car caught the automobile and prevented it from turning over, probably accounts for his life being saved.

Mr. Manning saw the engine, pushing two freight cars ahead, approach the crossing from the east, a small girl at the side of the street having warned him of his danger. He was then almost one hundred feet from the crossing, he says, but the street was covered with a glare of ice and the automobile slid directly in the path of the cars and stopped on the crossing.

Mr. Manning applied the brake when his attention was called to the approach of the train and put the engine in reverse gear, he says, but this failed to stop the skidding car, even though the wheels were equipped with chains.

Mr. Manning asserted this morning that the engineer saw him and thought that he had crossed the track ahead of the train. Mr. Manning said that the brakeman, who should have been on the front end of the car, was on the rear end and did not see the automobile, or he could have stopped the train and prevented the accident.

The automobile was shoved about fifty feet up the track. If the coupling of the freight car had not caught in the rear door of the machine, it

CARTHAGE MAN HELD FOR STEALING COAL

Samuel T. Deweese Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by Capt. Charles J. Neill of Big Four

ANOTHER PROVES INNOCENCE

Samuel T. Deweese, a resident of Carthage was arrested today on a charge of stealing coal from a car on a side track of the Big Four railroad, and he was brought to jail here where a charge will be preferred against him.

This morning Captain Charles J. Neill of the Big Four detective force obtained a search warrant and with Constable John Wolters of Justice Stech's court, went to the Carthage place and conducted a search, which resulted in the finding of coal, it was said, similar to that in the car.

A second search warrant was issued against a Carthage resident, but this man produced sufficient evidence to show that he had purchased the coal from a dealer.

The alleged theft of the coal was January 28, according to the search warrants executed by Justice Stech.

NEW RECORDS FOR OFFICES ORDERED

County Treasurer And Auditor Instructed by Accounts Board to Make Drastic Changes

TO BE PARTIALLY FOLLOWED

Improved Method Will Simplify Auditor's Work—New Books Just Purchased in Both Offices

Instructions to install new record books that will change the methods materially, were received by the county auditor and county treasurer today from the state board of accounts.

Though he recently added two new record books at a cost of $80, Phil Wilk, the auditor, said that he would follow the recommendations of the state board and follow the new system, because it greatly simplifies the work. For example, the new book for issuing warrants makes provision for a carbon copy to go to the treasurer, instead of a stub now in use, and also has a column so that the auditor can keep a daily balance in the general fund and school funds.

The road construction record will not be followed, however, because it is almost identical to the one in use in the auditor's office and was copied largely from the form originated by Mr. Wilk.

Charles A. Frazee, deputy treasurer, said that he doubted if any changes would be made in the treasurer's office, because several new books had just been purchased for the office at the expense of more than $200. Mr. Frazee said that following the recommendations of the state board of accounts would not simplify the work in his office, but would make it more complicated.

There is no penalty attached for not following the instructions of the state board, it is said. One of the chief purposes of the standardization of the county offices is to simplify the work of the field examiners of the state board, who are supposed to examine the offices every year. Some county offices here have not been examined for three years.

The county could have been saved money if the instructions had been forwarded in December, because the auditor and treasurer did not order their new books until this month, after the county commissioners had let the contract for printing supplies. The instructions were dated December 7, 1923, and it is not understood here why they did not arrive sooner.

FELT TIRED, SO TIRED
Indiana Lady Says She Was Run-Down, Suffered With Her Back, Took Cards, and Got Well.
Richmond, Ind.—"I thought I would write a line or so, to say that I owe my good health and strength to Cardui," says a letter from Mrs. Cora Courtney, 31 Railroad Street, this city.
"I was all run-down until my family thought they would lose me," writes Mrs. Courtney. "My husband coaxed me to take Cardui, so, to please him, I did, and will say I do not regret it, for I am able to do all my work and do my shopping."
"I have five children, four in school, my husband and a boarder to do for, and I do all my own work for all of us, and find time to play. We all praise Cardui. Every sick and run-down woman should take this wonderful medicine."
"I suffered with my back; a very weak feeling in my limbs."
"I felt hardly able to drag; just tired—so tired all the time."
"It was an effort for me to do anything, but Cardui helped me so I felt like a different woman."
If you are in a run-down physical condition, suffering as this Indiana lady says she did, give Cardui a fair trial. It should help you.
Take Cardui. NC-147

After Influenza—SCOTT'S EMULSION to build you up

Obituary
Died, Friday November 30th 1923 at his residence in Gings Station, Daniel O'Keefe son of John and Johanna O'Keefe and husband of Sallie J. O'Keefe (nee Newkirk) daughter of Daniel B. and Polly A. Newkirk. Born in Brown county, Ohio. April 9th, 1852 he was educated in the public schools but before finishing the grades he left home at the age of sixteen to seek his fortune as a farm hand among strangers. Coming to Rush County in 1876 he found employment with the late Thomas Wright near Falmouth and later with Samuel Wyckoff, James Bussell, Robert Hinchman and Daniel B. Newkirk—all long since departed. October 16th, 1882 he was married and began farming on the F. M. Hamilton farm in Center township and after the death of Mr. Hamilton he took up his residence on the farm which he owned at his death. His health failing and being unable to work on the farm he purchased in Gings the residence where he died. The poet Pope has written that "the greatest study of man is man." Those who were most intimately acquainted with the deceased saw many of the characteristics which characterized his life. Possessed of the rashness and impetuosity peculiar to his race and a pride which never denied his blood, his too was that other trait—A warm heart, a generous nature and a loyalty in friendship, adversity nor rumor ever marred or misplaced hidden under a rough exterior which melted in sorrow or distress like the heart of a child. His high sense of honor in all business dealings, which made him shun trickery and detest it in others, made him respected by those with whom he dealt and his word was as good as his bond. While careful and prudent he never refused to aid a worthy person in want or need although at times ingratitude planted its sting. As disease of a painful and distressing nature continued to afflict him and break down his natural good nature he became morose and pessimistic and at times ill-natured and apparently robbed of the finer traits of early life. Yet it must be remembered that persistent pain and inability to get around coming so suddenly to a man whose life had been bustle and action destroyed his balance and left him the prey of every morbid feeling and suspicion. In this he was only human but with all his suffering he took a great interest in passing events and a man of honor whose loyalty to his friends ended only with his death. He had his faults—and who had not—and at times, when pain racked, they were many and grievous, but his frank, manly and generous nature always made amends for any seeming short coming. A member of no church he yet cherished an unflinching belief in a Supreme Being and a life beyond the grave and frequently talked about the great mystery of life and death and mans immortality. For him the mystery is over and he stands face to face with Eternity.
Panegyrics can wipe out no stains nor add grace nor virtue to the departed soul for "Can Storried men or animated bust, back to its mansion call the fleeting breath? Can honors voice provoke the silent dust, Or flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?" In Holy Writ we read "I am the Resurrection and the Life, He that believeth in me, tho he were dead, yet shall he live" and if revealed religion is not a myth, and Jesus Christ an impostor, there is hope of redemption for those who die in the faith of that promise. May he rest in peace and may his faults and his follies in this life be forgiven and forgotten by man as we hope to be forgiven by our Father who is in Heaven and remember alone his virtues and good deeds and as we drop a tear on the grave where he sleeps think—he was always a man. And may He who "tempests the wind to the storm lamb" now and ever have those who mourn his loss, in His sacred care and keeping.

CARD OF THANKS
My belated but heartfelt thanks are hereby tendered relatives and friends for their kindness, loyal tributes and assistance in the last sickness and death of my husband, Daniel O'Keefe. Also to Bro. Wyatt and singers.

Health And Vitality For Women

Health and Vitality can be yours without narcotics or drugs. Keeping well is largely a matter of keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to women as evidenced by headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, backache and irritability. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been overcoming such conditions and restoring sick and ailing women to health. It surely pays every suffering woman to try it.

In charging carelessness on the part of the railroad, the complaint alleges that the agents for the company should have remained on guard and watched the burning fire.

When the impact came, Mr. Manning kicked out the front door of the right side and jumped clear of the moving train. His right arm was cut above the elbow by broken glass of the windshield and his right hip and left elbow were badly bruised.
The right wheels of the machine were broken down, the left side was crushed in, the frame twisted and the radius rods bent. The top was almost demolished.

The engineer told Mr. Manning after the accident that he thought the automobile had cleared the track and kept train moving after bringing it almost to a stop to make sure that the machine would get across safely.

NEW'S PROGRAM IS FAR REACHING

Postmaster's Order is First Ever Put Out By Department For Mailing And Delivery of Newspapers

TO BE IN CONSTANT TRANSIT

Important Feature is no Publication Shall Be Given Any Less Efficient Treatment Than at Present

As a result of several months of investigation and study by experts of the postoffice department, Postmaster General New today issued the first definite, concise and complete program that has ever been put out by the department for the mailing, transmission and delivery of newspapers.

This order is most important. It is far reaching. It gives the same expedition to newspapers as it accorded to first class mail.

The order is the result of painstaking effort on the part of the postoffice inspectors, under the direction of First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett. Carefully worded and minute instructions have been issued to all employees engaged in handling the mails, so that there will be no possibility of misunderstanding the importance of getting newspapers to the reader with a minimum of delay.

The essence of the order is that newspapers shall not be moved with parcels post at any point in their dispatch from the publishers' office with their delivery to the addresses. Papers shall be handled by themselves, and kept in constant transit, not being sent to railway terminals to be reworked. In other words, they are to be handled in the same manner as first class mail.

An important feature of the order is that no publication shall be given any less efficient or less expeditious treatment than at present. That means that publications other than from this progressive innovation, newspapers will not suffer one iota made by the postoffice department.

Another striking figure of the order is the elimination of sacks of mail which are known to the business world as "mixed mail." Sacks of mixed mail some times contain letters, papers, and parcel post, and often times the entire contents were treated as parcels post. This order will prevent a recurrence of that condition.

Another important feature of the order is that postmasters are required to notify publishers in each instance when they do not hit the dispatch which they advertise to hit; also to notify publishers when they are sending to wrong addresses and to the addresses of deceased persons. Publishers will also be notified when they are putting up their mail in an incorrect manner.

Under the new system, newspapers will be made up in separate sacks plainly labeled with the word "NEWSPAPERS." If there are only a few copies of newspapers at the point of dispatch, they will be placed in pouches with first class mail or in separate sacks, even though the sacks are only partially filled.

Fig Coffee.

It is reported in Czechoslovakia figs are prepared in substitution for coffee. Dried either in the sun or in evaporating pans, according to the climate, they are then roasted in ovens until they are quite brown and brittle, after which they are ground into a powder that is pressed into tablets. These are dissolved in hot water when "coffee" is desired.

The "Politician"

A favorite way for thoughtless people to condemn a man in public life is to call him a "politician."

"Rabid and sensational metropolitan newspapers are in a large measure responsible for this point of view.
Office holders who will not do their bidding are branded as "politicians" and in the minds of those who fail to think of themselves, nothing could be worse.

But what is a politician? The definition of the word discloses that a politician is one engaged in politics.
Politics is the administration of public affairs. So by the simple process of reasoning, we arrive at the conclusion that a politician is one experienced in the administration of public affairs.

It is so horrible to be versed in public affairs? Yet implications have perverted the use of the word "politician" until many regard offices created for the service of the people the least desirable of all vocations in life.

There are those, of course, who are not thus deluded. They realize that men and women trained by experience are needed in public life just as they are needed in any private corporation or small business.

Politicians, if you please, people versed in the art of public business—not machine politicians, not errand boys or disreputable "ward leaders" but clean, honest and reputable citizens who realize that politics offers a useful career.

Men and women of talent and ability should enter the field of politics but many are going to remain on the outside until the stigma is removed from the "politician."

tions that have permitted their enthusiasm for the Mellon tax reduction plan to get the better of their judgment. They have had printed thousands of letters which they are asking the people to sign and mail to Washington. Such efforts serve to defeat rather than aid the cause. Every Congressman wants to get the real views of his constituents, not only on taxation and bonus, but on every other public question. But letters must bear evidence that they really express the author's opinions rather than the views of some other individual or organization. If you have not written a letter of that sort, do so now, telling your Senators or Congressmen what you think of tax reduction and the soldiers' bonus.

The Soviet Investigation

The senate foreign relations committee is holding public hearings on the Russian question. Whether or not the soviet government has been conducting propaganda in this country directed at the overthrow of the United States government is a question that will occupy the chief attention of the committee. The department of justice has declared that it has ample proof of such activity, and it will be surprising if evidence is brought forward to disprove that assertion. If it is demonstrated that the soviet government is actually trying to overthrow our own institutions, there should be an end to the efforts of responsible Americans to induce the United States to recognize the soviets.

MOVIES"Black Oxen" at Princess

More than ordinary interest is aroused by the announcement that the management of the Princess theatre has contracted to play Frank Lloyd's "Black Oxen," a First National picture featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle, starting today for this photoplay is the screen version of Gertrude Atherton's novel which became the best-selling novel of 1923.

As a book the revelation of the Atherton novel made "Black Oxen" a meteoric triumph and as a film play, enhanced by living characters, the Lloyd play is said to be an ever greater hit.

In transferring the odd romance of Lee Clavering, a cynical newspaper writer and budding playwright, and Madame Zatianny, a woman of 58 who appeared to be no more than 30 years of age, Mr. Lloyd has surrounded his leading players with a cast of unusual brilliance and given the players an elaborate and artistic atmospheric background for their action.

Miss Griffith, one of the screen's most beautiful and talented stars, is seen as Madame Zatianny, who, rejuvenated by a glandular treatment, finds her true love in the autumn of life, and Mr. Tearle plays Clavering, who, although active in social circles for many years, finds in the charming Zatianny his ideal, and whose devotion is unhampered
by the discovery of his sweetheart's true age. Clara Bow, a newcomer to the screen essays the part of the lapperish Janet Ogilthorpe, a debute with modern ideas as to her own behavior and her prospective husband.

COUNTY NET BATTLES

HITTIN' 'EM —AND— MISSIN' 'EM

Work on the county stable is just a bout completed, and will be ready in time for Friday night. Carpenters have only a few more boards to put in place and the mammoth big barn will be ready. Steam heated stalls for some teams, roost for others and all modern conveniences. We want to treat all of the county animals fine. Moscow has a bid in for one of the silos and Raleigh wants the other, but when it comes to pickin' the places, they will have to decide it when they all get together.

Richmond Green rushed to Connersville the other morning, so we are told, to save the gym from burning, so that they'd have a place left in the town in which to trim the Ik-niks.

Greensburg is comin' here Thursday night to spring a surprise. They might do it, and if they win, you won't hear any alibi from Hittin' 'em. That has been the policy all season, regardless of what some scribes seem to think are alibis "before".

This Guy Wins The Bottle of Castoria

When it comes to being president of the Amnias club, in the department of stretching the truth, Side Lights, over at Connersville wins the appointment. Here is what he says:

Hittin' 'em broke out Saturday with alibis galore. He says that a ten-point margin on the home team's floor still puts 'em on even terms and that the day of reckoning is coming. All right ole top but don't get too confident.

That statement was directly to the contrary. Hittin' 'em did not offer a single alibi. If that ten point stuff is an alibi, then an Ik-nik is a four legged animal. Side Lights had better be brushing up on his alibis, because there is nothing sorer but what he will need 'em, after the Ik-niks get through over here.

MISERY LOVES COMPANY

"Then the Hoop," in the Shelbyville Democrat, says this:

Here they are, companions in misery. George Purcell of Vincennes; Hittin' 'em of Rushville, and Hardwood Hamper of Columbus.

And Hittin' 'em only adds that after Friday night, when Muncie gets through with Shelbyville, the above companions in misery will have two members, "Then the Hoop" and "Short Passes."

TODAY'S BEST SELLER IN RUSHVILLE IS FIRE INSURANCE.

JUST LIKE ALFONSO AND GASTON

Oh, dear readers, if you could only see the two little sweet scribes, Side Lights and Then the Hoop, Connersville and Shelbyville, put each other on the back like a couple of long lost sailors, with Side Lights handing bouquets to Shelbyville, keeping 'em sweet all the time, and then with Then the Hoop tossing back a kiss. Each loving the other for complimentary remarks, just like, "You say my team is fine, and I'll say yours is fine." They remind Hittin' 'em of love sick kittens, and a few years ago when ole Side Lights was running a baseball club in Rushville, gosh how he hated that bunch down at Shelbyville, and when he was running an independent basketball team here, he called everybody in Shelbyville a robber. It's a great world, lots of it, but any time o' Hittin' 'em dishes out 'be-sob sister stuff in order to get 'sopped on the back, and given a kiss, let us know. We don't take this thing as seriously as some do around here. If you gotta crack 'em to you, we give it, because the man in the moon sure knows that all the scribes give it to us.

The Greensburg News comes forward with this:

The Greensburg high school basketball team will endeavor to continue its winning streak this week at the expense of the Rushville floor next Thursday night. The locals have been playing a superior brand of basketball of late and local enthusiasts feel that the team with a little backing can take the Rushville squad into camp.

"Wonder what would happen if all of Muncie's players happened to be going right in one game," says the Muncie Press, who adds, "Its never happened this year." We'd feel sorry for the other fellow. Probably they're just waitin' until they have to stretch themselves for a victory.

The Lions had one big night when they all played like they meant it, and that was when Columbus was here. Coach Swain tells us that they have several games in view in which they are all going to be hitting together.

WE BET ANDERSON HATES IT TOO!

Side Lights of Connersville is surprised at Anderson, and says this:

Anderson stock got a big boost over the state as a result of that win over Vincennes, but the Alices evidently were off form. They look like a better team than that and SIDE LIGHTS isn't pickin' Anderson for the state, not by several games yet.

He probably is just about ready to pick Rushville, don't you bet?

Here is That Moscow Record Again

Although the record of the Moscow team has been printed before, Hash and Hash Po, the twins from that section, has sent us their record up to date, including a game last Saturday, in which Moscow swamped Ninevah, 43 to 18. The record is sure a good one, and the Cows will bear watching in both the invitational tourney and the sectional. Here is their record:

Moscow 47; New Salem 7
Moscow 34; Morristown 11
Moscow 39; Waldron 17
Moscow 41; Raleigh 27
Moscow 33; Arlington 19
Moscow 24; Webb 19

Moscow 40; Westport 24
Moscow 31; Raleigh 28 (2 overtime)
Moscow 19; Waldron 19

Hash and Hash also adds that Raleigh did not defeat Moscow as they had in the Saturday paper.

TWELVE IN RACE FOR LOVING CUP

Drawing For Positions in Rush County Basketball Tournament Set For Thursday Night

FOUR GAMES FRIDAY NIGHT

Same Number Scheduled For Saturday Morning, With Two in Afternoon and Final at Night

The annual Rush county basketball tourney for the high school teams is all set for the first games to be played on Friday night, and the drawing for the twelve teams will take place Thursday evening before the Rushville-Greensburg game.

On account of every high school team in the county entering the annual derby race for the silver loving cup, twelve teams will be in the drawing, and 11 games will be played to decide the winner. Four of these games will be played Friday night.

On account of the uneven number of games, one team will draw a bye, and go into the final game at night after playing only three games, and their opponent will play four games in order to play in the final game.

The games Friday night will start promptly at six o'clock, with the doors being opened 30 minutes before each session. The regular 15-minute halves for tourney play will be used. The first game will start at six, the second at 6:50 the third at 7:40 and the fourth at 8:30.

The officials also have been selected. Bills and Litherland will have charge of the Friday night games, and on Saturday Litherland and Shoeman will be the officials, as Bills has an all day tourney in Knightstown. Van Hood of Indianapolis will be time keeper and Will Blackledge of this city, scorer.

After the four games on Friday night, play will be resumed Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with four games before noon on the bill. The two games will be played in the afternoon, and the final at night at 7:45. A curtain raiser Saturday night will be played between the Rushville and Milroy girls, starting at seven o'clock.

The ticket sale is unusually good and one of the largest crowds is expected. Many schools have requested more tickets. The drawing for positions will be made by a representative of each school just before the game Thursday night, and it will be announced. The season tickets sell for $1.00, and single session tickets are 35 cents.

The ladies of St. Paul's M. E. church announced today that they would serve meals to the general public in the basement of the church Saturday, on account of the basketball tournament.

They Are Crows at New Salem

Dear Hittin' 'em—
You don't need any stall for the New Salem boys. They roost on perches. Our team flies under the name of "White Crows" and the team that gets the "tin can" Saturday night will have to eat "crow" to win. Our crows are

Railroading Players

HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 30—Major league managers and club owners deny that they have among themselves a gentleman's agreement not to interfere with each other's trading activities by claiming "useful players" upon whom waivers have been asked.

From time to time the fans, who have not access to the inside of baseball, find evidence that points to such an agreement. The players, who certainly are in a good position to hear back-stage talk, accused the club owners so directly with being willing to slide players out of the big leagues that they started to form a union a year ago to fight it.

With fifteen major league clubs recently allowed Elmer Smith, a .300 hitter, the champion pinch hitter of the American League and a fair fielding outfielder, to be clipped out to the American Association without a claim being made for him, it seemed strange, to say the least.

It was hard to understand why clubs in need of a reliable fielder and a hard hitter would offer big money to gamble on a minor league player when they would not accept for the waiver price a player of known ability.

Perhaps it was natural to figure that the Yankees wanted him to complete a deal with Louisville for Young Combs, a rookie with two seasons' experience and that the other clubs acted on the agreement—"I'll not claim yours, if you'll not claim mine."

Beyond an abstract denial of charges that the old "railroad" was still working, only one club official would take the trouble to explain how such things could happen regularly as a part of routine business. John McGraw, vice president and manager of the Giants, suggests that in the case of Smith several rival managers might have wanted to take him away from the Yankees, but they might not have been able to do it.

"Major League clubs are allowed to have only forty players on their list at any one time and just before the training season starts, it is seldom that a manager has a place on his team at a moment's notice," McGraw said.

It is a well known fact that the "forty player limit rule" is one of those rules that looks good on the books and that is respected only as a good looking rule by the baseball people. It is also believed generally that the rule never will prevent a club owner from taking on a player that he really wants.

There is more to another argument presented by McGraw, however, that frequently a fancy contract prevents one club from taking a player from another club, for even the low price of the waiver.

If Smith had a three or four year contract at a salary of $7,000 or $8,000 it is not likely that one of the club owners not in the wealthy class would care to assume the obligation of a contract—if they would consider a baseball contract as placing any obligations on the club owner.

With a lot of sound wisdom behind the point, McGraw also calls to mind that major league managers may know a lot more about the ability of players than the fans and the writers.

He points out that all managers are not in such a position financially that they can impose a burden on the payroll just to have a pinch hitter on the bench and that the title of "champion pinch hitter" is not as high meaning as it sound.

A pinch hitter it must be admitted might finish the season with an average of .399 and yet might not win a single game.

All Over Indiana

Columbia City—Two timber wolves were seen near here recently. Huntsmen would have taken up the chase, but snow filled the tracks before they could take up the trail.

Crawfordsville—Sheep-killing dogs are making inroads on flocks in the southern part of Montgomery county, according to farmers. The farmers have organized to kill the dogs.

Gary—Parents will decide whether their children of school age are to be vaccinated, and not the board of health, the board of education has ruled.

Marion—More than 200 boys and girls will participate in an old fashioned spelling and ciphering match in the county schools April 5.

Word To The Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Is Life Worth Living? It Depends on the Liver

Very few people are aware that the liver is one of the most important vital organs of the human body.

The liver is the board of health department of the human system. It is constantly on the alert to destroy poisonous matter which accumulates.

When the bowels fail to carry off the waste and poison, the liver is called upon to act quickly to destroy bacteria caused by the putrefying of the accumulated waste.

A neglected or overworked liver enlarges and becomes inflamed. The kidney cells become irritated and Bright's disease follows.

Diseased kidneys and hardened arteries raise the blood pressure and cause the heart to pump harder until the heart is diseased.

The brain becomes irritated and its action is impaired. Thoughts are sluggish, memory suffers and melancholia develops.

We could enumerate many more serious diseases which surely follow from liver complaint.

Singing Evangelist Back From Three Weeks Meeting

O. P. WAMSLEY

O. P. Wamsley, a singing evangelist, has returned to his home in this city from Salem, Washington county, where he has conducted a successful three weeks meeting at the Weir Memorial Methodist Church, assisting the Rev. C. S. Glick. During the meeting there were thirty accessions to the church.

He will leave Sunday for Metamora, where he will assist the Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of the Methodist church there, in a series of meetings. Mr. Wamsley will also conduct a weekly Community Sing to be held for four weeks, in the auditorium at Carthage. The Sing will begin either the third or tenth of February, the exact date not having been announced.

Mr. Wamsley has been making a success in the evangelistic work and his many friends here are glad to hear of his good work. He is also director of the choir of St. Paul's Methodist church in this city, while not engaged in the evangelistic work. During his absence, Miss Helen Jaehne, latin instructor in the local high school, acts as the director.

"Reform and improvement in the marketing system can come only as the fundamentals of marketing services are understood," said Dr. W. E. Paulson of the Farm Management Department of Purdue University, while discussing "The Marketing of Farm Products" with the farmers attending the recent short course at Purdue University.

"A general program of Wholesale elimination of middle-men, so popular in certain sections, is bound to fail," he said, "as it does not properly appreciate the essential services rendered by middlemen."

When asked what the attitude of the farmer should be toward the present marketing system and what they could do to help improve it, he replied that the farmer should take upon himself the job of obtaining a clearer conception of what the consumer wants as to the quantity and quality so that he can produce accordingly.

Dr. Paulson said that it is estimated that during the last 21 years the farmers on the Northwest have sent 110,000,000 bushels of dockage or waste along with wheat, to the
